1.1 Message from the President

Dear EACES members,

This is the 20th anniversary of our Association. During these twenty years, numerous valuable scientific initiatives have been organized by EACES and the European area itself has been reconfigured through a myriad of significant economic, social and political events. In the year when EACES was founded (1990), Germany realised an historical re-unification and further examples abound highlighting the huge changes that have occurred. In the years following the fall of the Berlin wall (1989) many countries - Central and Eastern European countries (CEECs) included - started a difficult economic and institutional "transition from planned to market economy". In less than 15 years from the beginning of transition, eight CEECs joined the European Union (2004) followed by two more countries in 2007. As for the EU, the currency and economic crises of the early 1990s were followed by a further "widening" to new members (15 in 1995, now 27) and by a remarkable "deepening" with the creation of the Eurozone (1999), initially encompassing 11 members, now 16, with Estonia to follow in January 2011.

So Europe today, though sustaining diversity in terms of economic development, institutional framework and the "varieties of capitalism" adopted, is no longer divided into two separate "blocs", characterized by distinct economic systems and "ideologies". In addition, contrary to two decades ago, as evidenced by the 2007-08 financial crisis and the 2008-09 recession, Europe is today much more integrated into the "globalised" world. In this new world - in addition to the US and Japan - two economic giants - China and India - are rapidly emerging and have a key and increasing role.

As for the complex relationship between empirical research and economic theory, during the last two decades at least four well-known historical events played a crucial and controversial role, especially in the European context: (i) the collapse of the planned economies and systems, (ii) the huge difficulties of the transition processes toward an ideal "market economy", (iii) the globalisation phenomena and problems of sustainability, global imbalances and inequality (with the additional risk of a "decline", at least in relative terms, for the European continent), (iv) the recent financial crisis and "great recession" that particularly hit confidence in the self-regulating capacity of global economic and financial markets.

In this context, over the past two decades, theoretical and empirical approaches, rooted in "comparative economics", have permitted a more thorough investigation and discussion of these historical events, and in so doing have furthered our understanding of economic and institutional policies.

I do hope that our Association will continue to produce scientific research - including through the promotion of Workshops and Conferences. The policy insights that flow from our theoretical and empirical work will be our contribution to the realisation of a more "decent" economic and social world.

EACES President

1.2 Executive Committee Meeting, 27 August 2010

The first meeting of the new Executive Committee was held at Dorpat Conference Centre, Room Pirogov, Tartu 27 August 2010, 8.00 – 9.00 hrs.

Participants:

Executive Committee: Marcello Signorelli (President), Tomasz Mickiewicz (Vice-President), Joachim Zweynert (Treasurer), Horst Brezinski, Hubert Gabrisch, Milena Jovicic, Enrico Marelli, Martin Myant, Satoshi Mizobata, Ileana Tache, Urmas Varblane, Andrei Yakovlev.

Advisory Board: Vittorio Valli, Milica Uvalic, Michael Keren.

Apologies received: Christopher Gerry (Secretary)

1. Welcome address

The new elected President Marcello Signorelli welcomed the "old and new" EC-AB members. The new composition of EC is the result of yesterday's elections by the General Assembly (details of election results will be reported in the next Newsletter). The President briefly reported on the most pressing issues, including overdue payment (as decided at the EC-AB meeting in London) to the Newsletter editor.

2. Roman Horvath

It was agreed that Roman Horvath (who had to cancel his participation in the biannual meeting at the last minute due to illness), the recipient of the PhD award will be invited to come and present at the next association workshop, where he will receive the prize.

3. New EC members

The new members of the Executive Committee in attendance (Hubert Gabrisch, Milena Jovicic, Enrico Marelli, Tomasz Mickiewicz, Ileana Tache, Joachim Zweynert) presented themselves and briefly presented their projects for Workshops and other initiatives.

4. Workshops

There was discussion of possible workshops to be organised before the next biannual Conference. The calls for workshops (with the possibility to request partial financial support) should be instrumental for choosing papers publishable in Association Journals and other high quality Journals. An organiser of a workshop may be asked to serve as a guest editor. A non-exclusive list of proposed EACES workshops (in some cases in collaboration with other institutions and associations) include:

- February 18-19 2011: Workshop in Brighton (organised by Jens Holscher) (combined with EC-AB meeting);
- April 2011: PhD Workshop in Moscow jointly organized by EACES and Higher School of Economics during HSE conference (organised by Joachim Zweynert and Andrei Yakovlev)
- April 2011: Workshops in Ekaterinburg (organised by Andrei Yakovlev);
- May 2011: Workshop in Bologna (organised by Hubert Gabrisch and Ileana Tache);
- September 2011: Workshop in Montenegro (organised by Milena Jovicic);
- October 2011: Workshop in Tokyo or Kyoto (organised by Satoshi Mizobata);
- November 10-11 2011: Workshop in Perugia (organised by Marcello Signorelli) (combined with EC-AB meeting);
- December 2011: Workshop in Berlin (organised by Joachim Zweynert);
- May 2012: Workshop in Brescia (organised by Enrico Marelli).

5. Web site

Ideas for improving the web site were discussed. Andrei Yakovlev and Vittorio Valli proposed to include the list of members with their research interests and contact data (email). This was accepted. The President highlighted that the EACES website has significantly improved in recent years; however some further improvements would be very useful. It was agreed that Horst Brezinski will continue with web site management until there will be some real opportunity to transfer it elsewhere.

6. International Economic Association

The idea to join the International Economic Association (an umbrella organisation) was discussed. The idea was supported subject to budget constraints. The President invited members to participate in the next International Economic Association conference in China (Beijing, July 4-8 2011); the call for papers is available at the IEA website: <http://www.iea-world.com/>.

7. Intersession Meetings

The President signalled that in case there are (non-major) issues to resolve, and there is no Executive Committee meeting in sight, support of the committee may be sought via e-mail, or possibly through Skype meetings. This was accepted.

8. 2012 Biannual Meeting

It is likely that the 2012 biannual meeting will take place at UCL, in London. However the local team needs to verify if sufficient administrative support will be offered by the host institution. This should be confirmed before the end of this calendar year. The timing will need not to coincide with the Olympics and associated events. This is likely to result in moving the meeting to early September.

9. Advertising non-EACES events

It was agreed that events which are not EACES events may be advertised via the Newsletter if considered of importance (and especially if it is accompanied by institutional membership). That includes the Moscow conference organised by Higher School of Economics (Andrei Yakovlev).

10. EACES PhD award

Michael Keren proposed that Tomasz Mickiewicz continues to take responsibility for the EACES PhD award and proposed stricter relationships with the Editors of Journals for considering the publication of parts of selected thesis. This was agreed.

Note: This final version of the Minutes, approved by the Managing Board, is the result of e-mail consultation - on the base of a draft version - within the EC-AB members that participated to the meeting in August 27.

Jens Hölscher welcomed the EC and AB members and introduced the guests - Tomasz Mickiewicz (UCL SSEES, a nominee for the Vice-President position), Giovanni Ramello (Università del Piemonte Orientale, EJCE Managing Editor) and Tiia Vissak (Tartu University, a conference organizer).

2. Update on Tartu Conference (Tiia Vissak and Urmas Varblane)

Tiia Vissak gave a detailed overview of the conference programme, notifying EC-AB members of the last minute changes in it. Urmas Varblane commented on the conference budget.

3. Fine-tuning of day one

Some last minute amendments were made to the programme, including incorporation of Tomasz Mickiewicz's presentation on a Doctorate Award, on day one, and the moving of Richard Pomfret's keynote speech to day two.

Jens Hölscher proposed members for the election committee, which was followed with approval from the meeting participants.

4. Any other business

European Journal of Comparative Economics (EJCE) report

Vittorio Valli reported on the business of the ECJE, giving some figures on the increase of downloads and quotations of papers published. He also informed the EC-AB members of EJCE improving its RePec impact factor. As of August 2010 EJCE belongs in the top 25% of journals (1140 journals were included in the ranking). Giovanni Ramello discussed some organizational issues of the journal. Given the increasing popularity of EJCE and the amount of work involved in the preparation of each issue, which is getting more difficult to cope with given current resources, the EC-AB members present at the meeting decided to provide some financial support to the journal in 2010.

The question of attracting more high-profile referees was also raised. The participants also discussed the issue of EJCE joining citation databases of peer-reviewed literature, including ISI and Scopus.

Treasurer's report

Horst Brezinski reported on the increase in the number of EACES members and briefly discussed EACES current and prospective income and expenditure. He also strongly supported the proposal to quantify the first EACES support of EJCE to the value of 1,000 Euros. In light of the membership issue the meeting participants emphasized the need to attract new Institutional members.

Among other issues the participants also discussed the issue of the development of summer schools, emphasizing the growing popularity of the summer school, run by Urmas Varblane, at Tartu University.

During the meeting it was also agreed that, subject to final confirmation, UCL (London) will host the next EACES bi-annual conference in 2012.

CALL FOR PAPERS

It is our pleasure to announce the 25th research seminar of the Managing Economic Transition network, which is organized jointly with the European Association for Comparative Economic Studies www.eaces.org.

The research seminar will be hosted by the research group Economic & Social Transition (EST), University of Brighton Business School on the 18th of February 2011.

We look forward to receive papers which relate any economic issues of Central Eastern Europe and Central Asian region, both on macro and micro level.

The papers or abstracts should be sent to Chris Matthews c.r.matthews@brighton.ac.uk no later than on the 1st of January. The network seminars are free for all, but we do not cover any costs.

2.2 PhD Seminar on “Modernisation of Economy and Society”, April 5-7 2011

12th HSE April International Academic Conference
“Modernisation of Economy and Society”

In co-operation with the European Association for Comparative Economic Studies (EACES) the Higher School of Economics (HSE) has now included two PhD panels into the programme of its traditional April conference. The main aim of these panels is to foster contacts and stimulate co-operation between young economists from Russia and other countries. Submissions from all fields of economics are welcome, but they should relate to comparative economics as well as to the general topic of the conference “Modernisation of Economy and Society”.

Six PhD students will be invited to give 20 minute presentations which will then be commented on, in detail, by senior academics. Travel expenses and accommodation will be provided for the selected students. Proposals of between 800 and 1,200 words, giving a clear idea of the main thesis and methods, plus a short CV should be sent to Andrei Yakovlev (ayakovlev@hse.ru) no later than December 1st. The final decision of the selection committee will be made by February 1st. Full papers, of 7,000-9,000 words will then have to be submitted by February 20th.

The selection committee consists of the following persons:

4. NEW BOOK ARRIVAL AND OTHER PUBLICATIONS

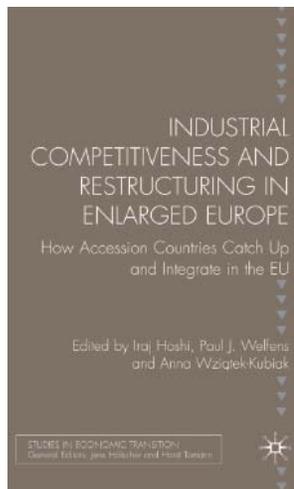

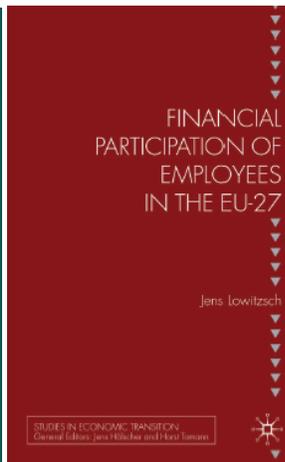

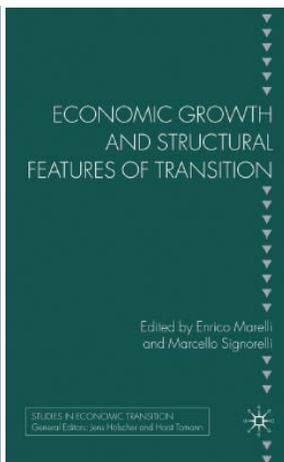

4.1 New Books

Economics of Institutional Change

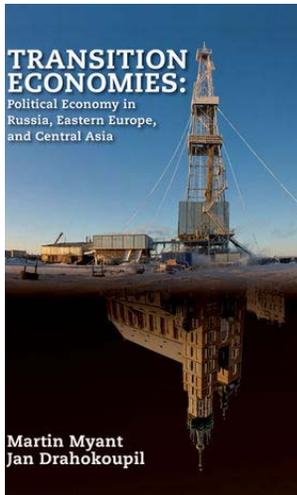

On the 5th of October at University College London, Professor Tomasz Mickiewicz presented a well-attended lecture introducing his new book "Economics of Institutional Change", just published in the Studies in Economic Transition, Palgrave Macmillan Series. He stressed how a simplified view on institutional change leads to a focus on a narrow set of indicators and results in a lower effectiveness of policies adopted. In particular, both the international institutions and economists in academia working on transition remained preoccupied with low level regulatory reform. While the latter is unquestionably important, there are limits to how much can be achieved without thinking seriously about constitutional parameters defining institutional frameworks. Regulatory reform may achieve little in a country devoid of stable constitutional foundations. In addition, norms and values have to be taken seriously, and the role of media and education is as important as the role of the reform of formal institutions.

Few other books were also introduced in the lecture. On the occasion of the EACES Conference, this year the book on Economics of Institutional Change by Professor Tomasz Mickiewicz and the followings have their 20% discounted price:

Transition Economies: Political Economy in Russia, Eastern Europe, and Central Asia

Martin Myant, University of the West of Scotland
Jan Drahokoupil, University of Mannheim, MZES

Transition Economies provides students with an up-to-date and highly comprehensive analysis of the economic transformation in former communist countries of Eastern Europe and Central Europe and countries of the former Soviet Union. With coverage extending from the end of central planning to the capitalist varieties of the present, this text provides a comparative analysis of economic transformation and political-economic diversity that has emerged as a direct result. It covers differences between countries in terms of economic performance and integration into the world economy. Transition Economies seeks to explain and deepen understanding of these differences, chart the emerging forms of capitalism there, and provide country responses to the world financial crisis of 2008-2009.

II. ECONOMIC SYSTEMS

Economic Systems is a refereed journal for the analysis of causes and consequences of the significant institutional variety prevailing among developed, developing, and emerging economies, as well as attempts at and proposals for their reform. The journal is open to micro and macro contributions, theoretical as well as empirical, the latter to analyze related topics against the background of country or region-specific experiences. In this respect, Economic Systems retains its long standing interest in the emerging economies of Central and Eastern Europe and other former transition economies, but also encourages contributions that cover any part of the world, including Asia, Latin America, the Middle East, or Africa.

Editors' note on comparing citations to Economic Systems

Authors are concerned about the potential impact of their papers when selecting an outlet for their research. According to the Journal Citation Reports (JCR), a journal's current year 'impact factor' is defined as the number of current year citations to articles published in the specific journal within the two preceding years, divided by the total number of articles published in that specific journal within these same two preceding years.

Data is now available for journals based on 2008 citations. The data is from the Scopus citation database. We used Scopus to calculate the number of citations made in 2008 to papers published in 2006 and 2007, according to the JCR definition above. Results for Economic Systems and other Elsevier journals related in aims and scope are as follows:

Economic Systems	0.755
China Economic Review	1.222
Economic Modelling	0.508
Emerging Markets Review	0.906
Journal of Asian Economics	0.366
Japan and the World Economy	0.369
Journal of Comparative Economics	1.246
Journal of Development Economics	1.632
Journal of the Japanese and International Economies	0.649
Journal of Policy Modeling	0.589

If you publish in Economic Systems and publication data influences your professional advancement, you may wish to include this information when submitting your CV for evaluation.

III. POST-COMMUNIST ECONOMIES

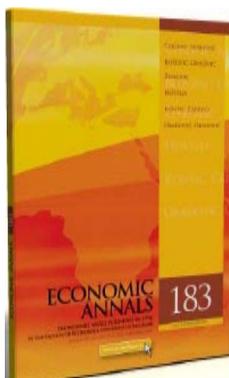

2010 Thomson Reuters
 Published By: Routledge
 Print ISSN: 1463-1377
 Online ISSN: 1465-3958

WIDER FOCUS OF THE 'POST COMMUNIST ECONOMIES' JOURNAL

EACES members who are traditionally strong in cross-discipline research may find useful that the 'Post Communist Economies' journal now broadened its scope and invites not only contributions in economics (which remain its core focus), but also in political economy and economic sociology. While the journal is not formally associated with EACES, the EACES members feature strongly amongst the authors. Although the journal focuses on formerly Communist Economies and Economic Transformation, the journal editor, Robert Clarke is also open to ideas about special issues. 'Post Communist Economies' is quoted on ISI Thomson citation reports under economics, so remains an attractive outlet to publish.

4.4 EBRD Publication

Message from the EBRD

The European Bank for Reconstruction and Development (EBRD) would like to thank you for your subscription to our annual Transition Report. After many years we have decided to distribute the report for free both electronically and in print.

We are therefore cancelling our subscription service through The Stationery Office (TSO) and will now primarily make the report available online at www.ebrd.com/transitionreport.

Please visit our web site to find the latest data available and download PDFs of the Report. We are also making the country assessments available in HTML and hope to make the charts directly accessible for reuse. As you may be aware, the data from the Report has been available on the EBRD web site for some time at: www.ebrd.com/economics.

If you would like to continue to receive a print copy of the Transition Report please send an email to pubsdesk@ebrd.com with the subject line 'TR10 hard copy code: sub 2010', so that we may add you to the distribution list for future editions. In an effort to reduce waste and energy used in transport we will be limiting print copies to two per institution and one per individual. Please also use the pubsdesk@ebrd.com email address if you have any queries regarding the discontinuation of the subscription service.

We value your continued readership and believe that by making the Transition Report freely available we can reach a wider audience and inform academics, policy makers and business leaders on the state of transition across our region of operations.

Kind Regards

Erik Berglöf

EBRD Chief Economist

Editorial:

In this issue of EACES Newsletter 55 (September 2010), we have included substantial information in connection with the 11th bi-annual conference of EACES organised at the University of Tartu, Estonia, August 26-28, 2010. Furthermore, the newsletter presents a list of officials elected for different positions of the Executive Committee, along with their portraits in Section Five. The presidential message highlights the major development during the 20 years of the history of EACES. More specifically, the activity report by Dr. Jens Holscher – EACES President during 2008-10 – summarises the major developments during the last two years.

Section Two of this newsletter provides information regarding the Calls for Papers to the forthcoming conferences, workshops, and seminars. The due dates are summarised in Section Three. Encouragingly, the number of conferences, workshops, seminars and lectures that EACES has been organising are growing over the years; this 55th issue of the newsletter presents those which are occurring during November 2010 – September 2011.

Information regarding the recent publications of EACES members is the subject matter of Section Four. It briefly presents the new book arrivals in the field of Comparative Economics and Economies of Transition; notably, the books launched by Professor Tomasz Mickiewicz during the first week of October 2010. Likewise, information regarding the book entitled Transition Economies authored by Professor Martin Myant and Jan Drahokoupil is also inclusive in this issue. Furthermore, the newsletter also includes information on new and emerging journals such as Post-Communist Economies, Economic Systems, European Journal of Comparative Economics, Economic Annals, and Review of Economics and Institutions as the new outlets with high potential to accommodate articles based on outstanding research conducted by EACES members.

The editor would like to include the information regarding the publications and other achievements of the EACES members in the newsletter as in a regular basis. Furthermore, any comment/suggestion for the improvement of the newsletter is always welcome. The submissions are requested to deliver either in the form of hard copy or (preferably) electronic copy to:
