1.1 Message from the president

Dear EACES members,

the most significant event in the calendar of our scientific society is certainly the bi-annual conference, the last of which took place in Warsaw in September 2018. Many of you even may not have ever come into contact with EACES outside this event.

However, EACES is not an organization that wakes up every other year from an otherwise eternal slumber.

One important format, we are promoting and which we support is the organization of typically smaller but very focused seminars, workshops and conferences that bring together scientists working in the same area. All of us know that these events are usually very productive for the progress of a specific research agenda, whereas the “big events” such as the bi-annual EACES conference are better in providing a survey of and refresher on developments of the broader field.

I want to take the opportunity of this presidential message to inform you about very recent and upcoming events. This is intended also to let you know how the association uses the membership fees we are collecting from you – the EACES members. Of course, EACES can and does not finance any of these events in full – and would not even want to do this. Without exception, EACES only makes a small contribution to the budget of these events – for more details see e.g. the minutes of the board meeting in the last issue of this newsletter. However, as I know from own experience as well as from conversations with the organizers EACES' support does make a difference, e.g. concerning the possibility to invite a distinguished keynote speaker.

Thanks are due to the organizers of these events for their efforts and for making sure that our common cause as EACES members of promoting our subject benefits at least to some extent from our collective (financial and intellectual) contributions to EACES.

I wish all of you a relaxing (and therefore productive) and happy summertime. And have a look at the list of events below and maybe even at the information behind the links to the events' websites.

Entrepreneurship Policy in Context - Critical Perspectives

Thursday 13 February - Friday 14 February 2020

Venue: Room to be confirmed, Kingston Hill campus, Kingston Hill, Kingston upon Thames, Surrey KT2 7LB

Price: £70 / £50 students

To attend: booking will be available soon, please check back

<https://www.kingston.ac.uk/events/item/3249/13-feb-2020-small-business-research-centre-conference-entrepreneurship-policy-in-context-critical-perspectives/>

Whilst entrepreneurship is the result of proactivity by individuals and groups of individuals, even in mature market economies, the state plays a key role in shaping the environment in which private business takes place. This international conference will adopt a broad definition of what constitutes relevant policies, including government actions that can affect entrepreneurship although are not necessarily targeted at them.

The conference will be of interest to academic scholars and policy experts worldwide in the field of entrepreneurship and public policy. It will be interactive and designed to provide space for policy makers and academics to share ideas and critiques of policy.

Delegates are encouraged to present papers on any aspect of public policy related to entrepreneurship, but we particularly welcome those related to the following topics:

- The role of the state in relation to entrepreneurship in emerging market economies
- Better regulation in a cross cultural context
- Distinguishing features of inclusive entrepreneurship that affects policy priorities
- Is the current array of policy measures focusing on support for internationalising firms meeting the needs of Europe's SMEs?

- Is evidence based policy a realistic objective?

Keynote speakers to be confirmed.

Bournemouth University's vision is worldwide recognition as a leading university for inspiring learning, advancing knowledge and enriching society through the fusion of education, research and practice. Our highly skilled and creative workforce is comprised of individuals drawn from a broad cross section of the globe, who reflect a variety of backgrounds, talents, perspectives and experiences that help to build our global learning community.

The Faculty of Management is a vibrant and innovative environment containing four academic departments: People & Organisations; Marketing, Strategy & Innovation; Accounting, Finance and Economics; and, Sport and Event Management, a number of research centres; including Disaster Management; the Sport and Physical Activity Research Centre; the International Centre for Tourism & Hospitality Research, and the AACSB accredited Business School. We are investing in some exciting new positions to further align our teaching and research portfolio toward BU's 2025 strategic plan, the UN Sustainable Development Goals, and AACSB's future vision, and to position the faculty as a driver of social and economic change.

We are looking for a Head of Department in Accounting, Finance & Economics, who will drive performance and resilience, further develop and build critical mass, and deliver on the primary indicators of the BU2025 strategy – inspiring learning, advancing knowledge and enriching society.

The Department of Accounting, Finance & Economics brings together academic leadership and strengths that provide for interdisciplinary teams and capacity in focussed areas of work. There exist strong research leadership and concentrations in: economic modelling, capital and emergent markets, energy and environmental economics, economic governance, taxation, corporate governance, and the resilience of financial systems. The Department is home to a dynamic portfolio of undergraduate and postgraduate academic programmes in Accounting, International Finance & Economics, Sustainable Economic Development & Emerging Markets and Corporate Governance.

We require a Head of Department with a strong future vision for the Department and who will enable the department to grow education provision, research programmes (through the further development of capacity and critical mass in focussed areas), enhance professional practice and with it secure economic and societal impact.

Further, the Head of Department will be expected to ensure alignment to the future vision of BU, ensure staff are leaders in their disciplines and professions, and create an environment that enables the success of high performing teams.

A bespoke and comprehensive programme of development and support will be available for successful appointees. The programme will be framed in the context of the University's strategic plan, BU2025.

You will be qualified to Doctorate level or equivalent in a relevant field. You will have demonstrated global research leadership and you will be committed to a culture of academic excellence and continuous improvement.

A detailed job description and person specification are available from our website together with an online application form (<https://www.bournemouth.ac.uk/head-department-accounting-finance-economics>).

BU values and is committed to an inclusive working environment. We seek a diverse community through attracting, developing and retaining staff from different backgrounds to contribute to inspirational learning, advancing knowledge and enriching society. To support and enable our staff to achieve a balance between work and their personal lives, we will also consider proposals for flexible working or job share arrangements.

Closing Date: (Midnight) Thursday 4 July 2019

Interview Date: Monday 2 September 2019
